FEATURES

If, in later years when memories are dimmed, you open the TECOAN to refresh your recollections of the pleasant moments at East Carolina Teachers College and the hour slips rapidly by as you turn the pages, then will the editor's hours of pleasant labor have been well spent.

May each coming year add a new value to the TECOAN is the wish of the staff!

of North

"Arms and the man" I do not sing. But of her I sing who stood by at the founding of a State—a State brought forth in poverty and nurtured in adversity. In war she sacrificed, in peace she endured and looked forward to a better day for her children. Of the women of North Carolina I sing—the fairest among the fair, the bravest among the brave! ✣ ✣ She has justified her emancipation; she has taken charge of herself. She has unloosed the fetters of tradition and given the State a new type of mastery. Not the mastery of might; but the mastery of conscience, justice, sympathy, and a new set of spiritual values. Where man is most civilized, there woman is most supreme. ✣ ✣ She loves, she mothers, she nurses, she teaches, she goes into business, she makes herself at home in the professions. The pores of her mind she has opened up. ✣ ✣ For her no haunting fear frets the passing hour. The smile of pride is on her countenance. The sweetness of victory is in her voice. She is wise, for the experience of the ages is hers. Supreme confidence is given only to those who know and know that they know. ✣ ✣ She has no quarrel to make with the world—it is hers to serve and enjoy. She loves and is loved in return. She is beautiful, for she represents life at its highest peak of service. She works, she thinks, she sees, she sings, she dreams. ✣ ✣ The next generation is hers. It will grow to her stature, for she it is who will nurse it; it will know what she knows, for she it is who will teach it; it will be what she is, for she it is who will lead it. I hail her, Queen of the State. ✣ ✣

Women Carolina—

Agnes L. Whiteside

Died August 8, 1930

MISS AGNES L. WHITESIDE, teacher of Primary Education and Supervisor of Practice Teaching in the primary grades in the training schools, had been a member of the Faculty for fourteen years and throughout that time was vitally connected with the growth of the college, for years the very heart and soul of the primary work. She was largely responsible for the organization of the observation and practice teaching work, especially during its formative stages or during the period of expansion.

On the morning of August 8, Dr. Meadows, director of summer school, at the morning assembly devoted to her memory, made a talk that warmed the hearts of those who knew her. He took her life as the theme to show what makes a successful teacher, summing up the qualities that made her eminently successful, and attempting to give some idea of what she meant to the College. These were: She knew her subject matter and was always eager to get new ideas and she knew how to present them. She was thoroughly conscientious. She had personality, attracting people, especially children. Faith in her work, in others, and in her God, were all strong in her. "There are many teachers who owe their success to Miss Whiteside."

While she sleeps among her own people in the Tennessee hills, her spirit lives in North Carolina. She has left her impression upon primary education in North Carolina.

Senior Class Poem

Behold our Alma Mater,
In splendid riament dressed,
Upon her brow she wears a crown,
A star upon her breast.
A beacon of light she sent to us
From out her azure dome,
Bidding us to enter
And adopt her as our home.
She imparts to us a message,
In solemn tones and low:
"You are 'not at the top, but climbing'—
Your journey treacherous and slow."
Lead onward, O Alma Mater!
Lead onward, day by day!
We follow, as humble daughters should—
Proud mother, lead the way!

"Once There Was a Princess"

Class History

INTRODUCTION

IT is not the intention of the authors as they write the following volumes to write something famous—something so famous that it will prove an abomination to future students. Teachers and Instructors of history, do not spoil our story by compelling your students to read it. Rather than to "stir any soul to wrath" we prefer finding our history between glued pages—its contents unknown.

"History" says Van Loon, "is the mighty tower of experience which time has built amidst the endless fields of bygone ages." We women can appreciate that definition—because as a rule we read that history is "all that man has ever hoped for, thought of, or achieved. In the volumes that follow, you read of the deeds and achievements of women. We have sought to tell this story clearly and impartially. Out of the multitude of facts, which might be included in the domain of achievements accomplished by a group of women in 1928-1931, we have recounted of most importance. Thanks is due East Carolina Teachers College for the opportunities she is annually presenting.

VOLUME I

The challenge for the future leaders of our country met with a hearty response, when in September 1927, the flower of young womanhood migrated from the mountains and swamps of North Carolina and other states to East Carolina Teachers College to drink from her fountain of knowledge, 68 in number, fresh in quality and green in color, we wandered about the campus. Many thanks to the Y. W. C. A. girls who made us feel at home by their friendly visits to us those first days.

In vain we called upon that store house of high school seniors' knowledge to assist us in the trying ordeal of registration! We accepted, apparently, with child-like faith the monstrous burden of courses that was suddenly heaped upon us.

After we had become acclimated to East Carolina Teachers College, we met and organized our class, choosing Alma McGinnis as president, Hannah Turnage as vice president and Dorothy Richardson secretary and treasurer.

VOLUME II

And then, another year came around and we were Sophomores—more sophisticated. We discarded the little timid freshman reply—"I don't know"—and took up—"I don't believe I recall just now."

We could go down town any afternoon except Saturdays and Sundays—and some of us went then. We went calling at least once every week, and we had company one night each week—or if we chose—we let "him" come Sunday afternoon. We spent three week-ends away from the college every single term. Miss Morton occasionally gave us permission to take meals in town with "relatives," (I put "relatives" in quotations to let the reader know that accidents happen in history as well as in other subjects).

There were sixty-eight members in our class, and Alma McGinnis was our president. We made a wonderful showing that year. Of course we didn't go out and win any world championships or anything like that. I mean we went out for every sort of available activity—whatever our school attempted, whether on the athletic field or in debates. Every member of the class worked with zest and enthusiasm. For instance, there was our Senior-Sophomore party. Mr. Saunders of Elizabeth City gave us an inspiration and we called it a "Pajama Party."

The next big event was the coming of Paul Whiteman's Orchestra. Never will we forget that. How could we? Pretty music—Hum-n-and—Well, who doesn't enjoy it?

VOLUME III

Now we leave the Sophomore year and speak of the Junior Year. We welcomed several new members into our midst in the fall of '29. This year under the competent leadership of our president, Hannah Turnage, we accomplished the third great step toward our goal.

In the early fall came the Freshman-Junior kid party in the "Y" hut. Such fun in a "kiddish" way we had that night until the blinking lights told us it was time for good children to go to bed.

Then came days of hard work and excitement, for we must make that Junior-Senior banquet a success. On Saturday night, May 10, a jubilant crowd strolled into the banquet hall, there to remain until the wee hours of morning bid us leave, but with us we carried away pleasant memories of that eventful night.

Exams! and now we are ready to assume the role of Senior dignity bestowed upon us by the preceding class.

VOLUME IV

The one thing that so greatly effects the freshman and offsets his mental temperament, yet gives to the Senior an air of accomplishments, is this: "You've got to be a Freshman before you're a Sophomore; you've got to be a Sophomore before you're a Junior; you've got to be a Junior before you're a Senior"—and when you get to be a Senior—Well—So are we.

As we entered the last lap of the race for diplomas we felt—and perhaps looked quite different from what we did four years before. No, we weren't exactly dignified—just had a lot of work to do—practice teaching and all that. Work will make any body look different—but work was what we were working for and didn't mind.

We did a lot of things of importance that year. Our Senior play was great and the Junior-Senior Banquet! Did those Juniors know how to entertain? They did.

When we begin naming the events in succession, our mind goes off at a tangent and we find ourselves reminiscing. The first year we were here we wrote home "Mother, I'm so homesick I don't know what to do. But then four years of living here has made it home. "It took a heap o' sunshine and shadder" as Edgar Guest says, but we've made it home and now we leave reluctantly.

The summer sun is setting and we see the twilight approaching. That twilight we call "Commencement." And then winter begins.

Next year we go out to take our place in the world. Working. Smiling. Accomplishing. Watch us.

Miriam Mullen.
Geneva Lou Franklin.

Senior Class Last Will and Testament

WE the Senior Class of 1931, "Not to the top, but climbing," have reached the step of graduation and while seeking to secure a foothold on the step of promotion, we hereby bequeath to our Alma Mater the steps left behind, hoping that they will be invaluable to those who are to follow.

Step one. O, weary freshman, is that of patience. Be not discouraged for these steps are made of the strongest of material and will not wear.

Step two. O, Sister class, is one of service and loyalty to our Alma Mater. May it enable you to gain a firm footing in the activities of our campus.

Step three. O, happy juniors, is that of aspiration; from it we hoped that you may ascend to the heights of your cherished ideals.

We leave these trodden steps with love and devotion to our college trusting that they will ever be a symbol of guiding light to those who follow us.

Senior Class Prophecy

MARS came up to my fondest expectations. Never had I dreamed that a place could be so beautiful. 'Twas the year 1950, and Mars having been recommended by my physician, Dr. Hannah Turnage, as a good health resort, I was spending a quiet four weeks there.

Becoming discouraged over lack of gain in strength, I radioed Dr. Turnage to come up. By the time she arrived, however, I was feeling better, and we were able to have a friendly chat. She seemed pleased over something and finally blurted out, "Oh, can you imagine who came into my office the day before I left New York? No other than Martha Whitehurst, the president of our senior class, Geneva Lou Franklin was with her. They were gathering historical data concerning the recent controversy between Mars and Earth. I was surprised to see them for I had not thought of my class in years."

"Martha told me that Mary L. Smith is directing "Our Crowd" comedies. She ought to be good since she played the part of the kid so well in "Once There was A Princess." Mary Ella Cutler stars in most of these pictures.

"My visitors informed me of the whereabouts of several other members of our class. Mildred Whitehurst has married a senator from New York. She had a beautiful wedding at her palatial home on Long Island. The Great American Dancers, Mabel Menefee, Josephine Grant, Beulah Mayo, Abigail Roberts, Rena Grant, Lucy Wynne, were the bride's attendants. The sextette had just arrived from Chicago, where they had given one of their exclusive programs. It seems that their fame has exceeded anything that the Denni-Shawn dancers or Pavlowa ever enjoyed."

Having found out this much about our former class, our interest was aroused. Accordingly, Dr. Turnage and I climbed into her plane and were piloted to the roof of the Mars Scientific Observatory. After a few moments delay we were given permission to use telescope X. We turned toward Earth, and our first thought being our Alma Mater, we were soon able to see her.

In the cooking laboratory was Doris Woodard, head instructor of the Home Economics Department, giving instructions to her students. Lelia Brown Stancill has at last reached her ideal. She has taken Miss Ogden's—oh, I beg your pardon—Mrs. Jordan Stokes, III place at E. C. T. C., and has several assistants, among them Jewel Stone and Jamye Martin.

And next the scene shifts from dear ole E. C. T. C. to our Capital City. Here Alice Morgan, Ollie Jones, Sadie Belk, Emma Jean Cox, Ruby Stewart hold a most enviable position in the Library of Congress. Also behind a heavily carved mahogany desk, with a male secretary on her right and a reporter on her left, I see Edna Thomas West, dictating to the world, her version of the "World Peace."

And next we see a trans-continental plane bearing Gladys Swindell to Reno to get her fourth divorce. What should we see next! Was a big house in Boston where Beulah Lassiter was slinging a big party for Bessie Grissom, who has just announced her engagement. Beulah was entertaining her guest highly, or rvely, babbling about her trip she had just taken, "guess who I saw as I passed through Winterville? I saw Mr. and Mrs. Henry Oglesby, riding in a brand new red Ford."

Bessie also said that Katherine Lemmond is teaching school. And that this is her last year, but they always say that I suppose.

Then we saw Eleanor Barr. We recognized the house as that of a judge's. Eleanor must not have been able to live up to the preacher's standards.

Our eyes nearly jumped out of our heads at what we saw next in Roxy's Theater on Broadway. Lela Gordon was at the piano, playing some of her unique numbers which she had composed. The curtain rose, and Laura Overton made her famous speech on "How to grow Fat, Strong, and Healthy on an Eighteen-Day Diet." She showed a picture of herself before and after following the diet. She even convinced Miranda Strickland, who was in the audience, of its benefits. The talkie which followed the lecture was "A Dream of Fair Women," starring Josie Harrison and Annie Laurie Hunt.

It seemed lucky to hear two of our classmates speak for Della Lawrence next delivered a lecture on "The Value of Silence." She admits that the success as a speaker is due to Miss Horne, her former critic teacher.

The comedy of the talkie was entitled "The Love Bug" and Elizabeth Chenault was starring.

Following the comedy we heard beautiful music. It was an orchestra led by Emma Watson dressed in a chic uniform. Some of the players were Mary Adams, Beatrice Boyd, Anna Clark, and Tiny Hammond.

The scene shifted and we saw Lucy Fortescue being taken to a hospital. She had lost her mind completely because her students could not learn to spell her name, and she had gone around spelling ever since. Mary Biddle took her place in the school as head of the mathematics department.

Further down on Broadway was spied Helen Griffin and Ester Mae Griffin, who had organized nine hundred ninety-nine Sewing circles.

We next saw Maurice McCullen hastening to catch a train. Reporters and photographers besiege her on both sides. She is on her way to some Foreign country.

We were proud to see Alma McGinnis and Florence Taft riding down Broadway in a big limousine. They are both United States Senators now.

Horrors! we next saw a person being carried out of a theater by Margaret Patrick and Mildred Stroud. As we focused the telescope more closely we recognized the person as being Addie Pinnell. Addie was performing one of her famous chemical experiments before an audience when the thing exploded.

And then we saw Lucille Cole across the street. She was leaving shortly for China where she was going to run a girls school. She was taking along Lamina Baker, Ferry Lane Knox, and Grace Bazemore to help her. Grace told someone that Evelyn Griffin and Irene Mizzelle, and Isabel Lennon were in Africa, wearing grass skirts and singing for the natives.

There was a traffic jam, and in two planes, side by side, we saw Margaret Bryan and Ruth Pittman. Letha Newton and Margaret Vick, who are both airplane mechanics, were riding with Margaret and Ruth. They said that Nancy Usery was one of the best pilots at the Roosevelt Field. Zulene Johnson had recently won an endurance record. Verla Griffin and Margaret Myers were also aviatrix.

As we peered around we saw, in a opera house, Kathleen Johnson playing the lead in one of Sadie Harrell's plays. Lucille Yelverton was Property Manager, and Anne Edgerton was chairman of the curtain pulling committee.

In Egypt we found Nora Lee Harris, Miriam Mullen, and Maggie Hinson. They have been in Egypt about two years, measuring pyramids and poking around old ruins.

As we left the Scientific Observatory, neither of us spoke. The fate of our class had been unusual. That day we had seen them scattered to the four corners of the Earth and two on Mars. We did not think of them as meeting the various fates as we left our Alma Mater in 1931. Though Fate had truly played her part.

Junior Class Poem

Only the best to do,
Only the truth to see,
Only to live anew,
In all sincerity.
These in our hearts we hold,
Three wishes sincere,
These may we all uphold
In our lives here.
Sweet may our memories rest,
Alma Mater, with you,
As those who give their best,
That Class of '32.

Sophomore Class Poem

Calling us onward is our Alma Mater.
Let us heed unto her call,
For on passing two more milestones
We will then have reached our goal.
In a group we must reach it;
None should stop along the way,
For the highest of our ambitions
Are only dreamed in a single day.
Our college days are dear to us,
Yet we must leave them all behind us;
But why should we wear a tear when these few days are done?
For our memoirs will remind us
Of the Class of '33.

Class of '34

Only a college freshman class
Following the Gleam of the Holy Grail,
Our college is our guiding star
'Neath its light we cannot fail.

To serve our school, our watchword is,
We'll praise her with deed and song,
We'll do as she would'st have us do,
And conquer everything that's wrong.

May our class always light the way,
That those who see it from afar,
May find in it a glorious light,
Their hopes to be, and guilding star.

Senior Normal Class History

HOW well we remember that blue Monday, September 22, 1929, the day of our arrival. What a merry time slipping and sliding from building to building, to classes, and dining room through the mud and rain as the rain fell on, and on! How unkind we thought old Man Sunshine was for not playing his part and giving us a warm welcome to the castle of our dreams. True it was that we wanted, and needed the sunshine, but, oh, how common it was to see the poor "C's" attempting to aid the rain in its day's duty by sympathetically mixing huge tear drops with rain drops.

"C's" we were called, but what did that mean to us? Was it because we were not rated as high as A or B? No, it couldn't mean that. In that case we should be even lower than "D's," and was not that what we would be a year later? How green we were! The buildings were strange to us and faces, faces, faces everywhere of girls, women, teachers, and only one lone co-ed, all strangers at first but not for long! Of course we would soon gain their friendship.

Green C's we were, but when told we could organize we lost no time in getting our affairs into shape; and soon we felt sure that we would sail on the ship of "Success" with Captain Nellie Stewart and her mates in command.

Initiation! That horrible day. How we dreaded it! Finally the day came, and we felt that it was doom's day, and no less, as we entered into the performance of the day expecting anything. As our preceeding fellow C's had done, we came out tired but better and wiser girls. To our surprise we had enjoyed it.

Time had slipped by and Thanksgiving was approaching. Everybody was telling us about the basketball games, but we the "C's" knew from that time on we could be victorious over the "D's." We won!

Thrills! Our "C" year was ended at last. Books could be turned in, trunks packed, diplomas presented to the "D's" and Seniors. Oh, bountiful propheey, and drift into homeland once again.

All too soon August melted into September, and again the gong sounded. This time we were "Big Sisters," not the insignificant "Little Sisters" as we were the preceding year. Now we realized that it was we who could be good scouts and direct the "C's" and Freshmen over the campus.

We, one hundred seventy-one strong, were making a short cut for our longed for diplomas. A few of us played the part of a sly fox and came two summers, thus receiving our diplomas in December; others came one summer and received their diplomas in March.

In our second year Myrtle Kuykendall was put at the helm, who with her subordinates was, to steer us through.

As before, we were eagerly prepared for initiation, then for Thanksgiving. Alas! The struggle was over and sadly we surrendered our treasured token, the cup, to the "C's" and congratulated them on having been victorious over us, the Senior Normals.

Our main problem of our Senior-Normal year was practice teaching. Could we live through it and look the same? Where is the "D" who has not experienced sleepless nights and heart breaking days worrying over practice teaching? We lived through it——it was not so bad after all! Another problem——the Senior-Normal play. Who would be chosen for the hero, the heroine, and whatnot? Thrills and heart throbs!

This year, too, passes on. Nothing is now left except history and memories.

"D" Class Last Will and Testament

STATE OF NORTH CAROLINA
COUNTY OF PITT
TOWN OF GREENVILLE

EAST CAROLINA TEACHERS COLLEGE.

WE, the members of the Senior Normal Class of '31 being of sound health, and balanced mentality, and realizing that the last grain of the sands of youth has trickled through the hour glass and that we now must turn it over, do solemnly bequeath our goods, "et cetera," to our beloved brethren and "sistern" who will be left behind to follow in our noble footsteps.

ITEM I

We bequeath to the school as a whole all our intellectual attainments, originality and personality, and our eternal allegiance and loyalty.

ITEM II

To our faculty, the members of which have toiled so patiently with us through our many trials, we bequeath the empty seats to be filled with our successors, trusting they will measure up to our standard of pulchritude and I. Q.

ITEM III

To the Junior Normal class who will take our places, we leave with the most unimaginable pleasure:

1. All rights and privileges as "D's";
2. The bugs we haven't deprived of their lives, the birds, and the trees for nature study;
3. The lookout stations for 5th Street Jaybirds; and,
4. A copy of the book "How to Work" by Weno Likee.

Signed, sealed, and declared by the Senior Normal Class on the first day of June in the year of Our Lord one thousand nine hundred thirty-one.

Senior Normal Class Prophecy

ONE cold dreary night, we were comfortably seated on a soft bear-skin rug before a large open fire in the "Y" hut, discussing graduation and the trips we hoped to take after our college career had ended. As we sat gazing into the fire, one of the huge logs rolled over and from beneath, a blue flame leaped up making a strange noise. We looked at each other as if demanding some explanation. We were dumbfounded when we turned back to the fire. Within the flame was the dim outline of a plane. Suddenly, the fire was gone, and we were no longer in the hut, but standing watching the big plane land. One woman stepped from the ship. Lo! it was our president looking distinguished, efficient, and happy. Standing around the plane in traveling togs, the class remembered the agreement to return to commencement in 1941, one hundred per cent strong.

All the girls had come in planes, some in private, some in chartered, and some in regular liners. Roommates and old friends were reunited; and there was an exciting time with everyone trying to talk at once. Greeting and reminiscences were silenced by the beginning of the commencement program.

Afterwards, the entire class, with guides, joined a sight seeing tour of the campus. Many new buildings had changed the appearance of our Alma Mater; even the old buildings seemed strange as they had new units. The new dormitories were occupied by the co-eds, who, in fact, out numbered the girls. The beauty of the lake called forth memories of the beginning of that work. The whole campus was a model in landscape gardening. As we crossed the antiquated railroad track, the rusty engine was an object of hilarious laughter. We had almost forgotten there had ever been such an object as a locomotive engine. When we asked our guide about "privileges," she laughed and said, "all we know about them is what we find in the queer little purple handbook found in our library museum.

By three o'clock Monday afternoon, we were ready for our tour around the globe. The smooth hum of the motor signified the readiness of the plane for its journey. All were aboard in a short time; the crowd moved back as the massive ship arose in the air; and the class of 1941 gave us a send off with a resounding cheer.

What a chatter on the ship! We were finding out all about each other. We were thrilled over the fact that one hundred per cent was back for the reunion. All were still teaching, though many had changed their names to ones they liked better. Two records broken! and now we were one hundred per cent on the ten days trip around the world. How interesting were the tales of home building and school management! Each had a unique way of ruling the two at the same time.

At the end of ten days we were back on campus. Each girl was eager to get out her own plane and go back to her own home and life. All pledged to return in 1951.

The dying sound of the last plane seemed to end in a splutter which suddenly became a falling coal, and lo! rubbing our eyes, we saw the flame flicker out, leaving us in the semi-darkness of the "Y" hut.

"C" Class Poem

Here's to the "C" Class
In whom you can trust,
'Tis they that have courage;
So conquer they must.

They seek for the best things
That this life can give.
Their accomplishments give them
Incentive to live.

In victory, respectful,
In defeat they are gay,
Each up and each down
Is a step on their way.

So to thee, our own "C" Class,
We turn with much thought,
For 'tis thou that will profit
From what we are taught.

With accomplishments many,
And defeats just a few,
"C" Class, we are sure of
A bright future for you.

Oh, then let us gladly
Face the toil and the strife
Though hardships confront us,
We will smile,—that is life.

MYREE DENNIS.

Lanier Society Song

Tune: "On the Mall"

Let us sing a song of praise to our Society.
Hail to thee, O Sidney Lanier!
Loyal members ever proving your sobriety.
Though our fun to us will e'er be dear.
Then let us to our banner each a tribute pay—
Let us ever our motto uphold.
Always faithful, true, and loyal to thee, night and day.
Hurrah for the Green and Gold!

Poe Song

Oh, Edgar! Oh, Edgar Allan!
We are the Edgar Allan Poes.
We are the society.
Choice and picked variety.
Oh, Edgar! Oh, Edgar Allan!
We are the Edgar Allan Poes.
March on!—March on!
Beneath the red and white,
For we will conquer all our foes,
And we're sure to win in every fight.

Emerson Society Song

Tune: "Clayton's Grand March"

Oh, Emerson Society,
Dear old White and Blue!
For you our hearts beat merrily
As we sing this song to you.
For when we see our colors there,
Blue and White, everywhere,
We know that they mean only you,
And all you hold so true.
So here we are, the Emersons,
Boosting for our clan.
Oh, Emerson! Oh, Emerson!
For you we'll always stand!

LOOKING FOR A SNOW MAN

From the View Point of a Freshman

THE day of days had come at last, and here I was at E. C. T. C. I gazed around me at my surroundings, and with a homesick sigh I entered a building called Cotten Hall. There I met Miss Morton. After the preliminaries had been staged, one of those intellectual sophomores led me to a room in another building, and there left me. Was this place to be my home for four long years? Visions of home and friends passed through my mind, and my longing for home got the best of me for a few minutes.

After a few days I became one of the "gang," and we really had good times. Things went on as usual about a month, and then it was announced that we would be given a chance to join a society.

Then, initiation week rolled around. Mother never thought I was much of a housekeeper when I stayed at home, but the way these upper-classmen had me chasing around doing their fall cleaning for them, they must have thought me quite an artist at such tasks. I walked in the road like all Freshmen, and my hair made a good sliding board for the flies. Every time I came to a door, I barked, meowed, and brayed until I became a real musical artist.

Last quarter I dreamed of compound interest and bank discount; but this term it's aliens and sun behavior till I really can't think of anything else. I don't know why I'm writing all of this. I do not know how to end, so I'll stop. Three cheers for E. C. T. C.

Hold Your Breath Until—

Everyone comes to class meetings.

Mr. M. L. Wright doesn't suggest things.

Grace Gardner doesn't meet the Council.

Dr. Rebarker gives an "A" in Math.

Psychology becomes a crip.

Student Government meetings are not very "important."

Mass meetings are not compulsory.

Dates leave the campus before 10:00.

We can leave for a week-end without producing a birth certificate and full pedigree.

Girls can smoke on the campus.

Somebody overcuts chapel (?).

The fuses never blow out.

E. C. T. C., State, and Duke are consolidated.

Chicken, peas, and ice cream do not appear for Sunday dinner.

Bible is elected by the entire student body.

Any member of the TECOAN staff survives.

Front walks are paved at E. C. T. C.

It is safe to approach the postoffice at twelve o'clock.

Mrs. Jeter gives out sandwiches to take out of the dining hall.

Anybody laughs at this.

E. T. W.

ONLY THE BRAVE
DESERVE THE FAIR!
DAY OF ALL DAYS!

Alfred (the head cook, to Mrs. Jeter in daily conference about the menu), bowing profoundly, asks, "What disposition shall I make of the bones today, Madame, what disposition shall I make of the bones?"

* * *

On the morning before the initiation all the college girls were thrilled through and through, and thought every one else was as thrilled over the societies as they were.

"Becky" (to the maid): Aunt Fannie, you're a Poe, too aren't you?

Aunt Fannie: Why, yes, Honey, we all is po' and always has been sinse I was born'd.

Mary: Polly, you are just like a part of a tree.

Polly: What part, pray?

Mary: Oh, the sap, nut.

Ada Bell: OH, I'M so thrilled, I'm to have a date with a gentleman tonight.

Myra: Gentleman, nothing, He's just a boy from State College.

Dr. Rebarker: "Can you prove that the square on the hypotenuse is equal to the sum of the other two sides?

Vera Jennings: I don't have to prove it, I admit it."

AND KIPLING CALLED IT
AYES ABOVE AND SHRINK OF HAIR.

Campus Etiquette

In case of an automobile wreck, who should speak first? And should the man precede the lady through the windshield?

We claim the thinnest man in the world is the one who fell through a hole in his trousers and hanged himself.

Sign seen over country store: "Chinaware, Hardware, and Underware."

Suggestion for an opening sentence for a novel depicting college life: "A small coupe drew up in front of the dormitory and twelve passengers alighted."

Teacher: Erie, give me three proofs that the world is round.
Erie: Well, you say so, pa says so, and ma says so.

"Come a little closer"

The Poet's Corner

Ballad

By U. O. Mee, C.O.D., P.D.Q., N.G.

I came to college
To get a degree,
But I soon found out
They don't give 'em free.

I bought a book
To help in the cause,
But my report showed
There wasn't no Santa Claus.

I took Chemistry Lab.,
But I still don't know
How they can take out water
From H_2O.

I liked Trig very well,
Took it four years;
Then we two parted
In silence and tears.

I tried a little Physics,
But it proved a killer;
I switched to Education,
Just for a filler.

Now, I'm on the fence,
And feeling free;
But I had to leave college
Without a degree.

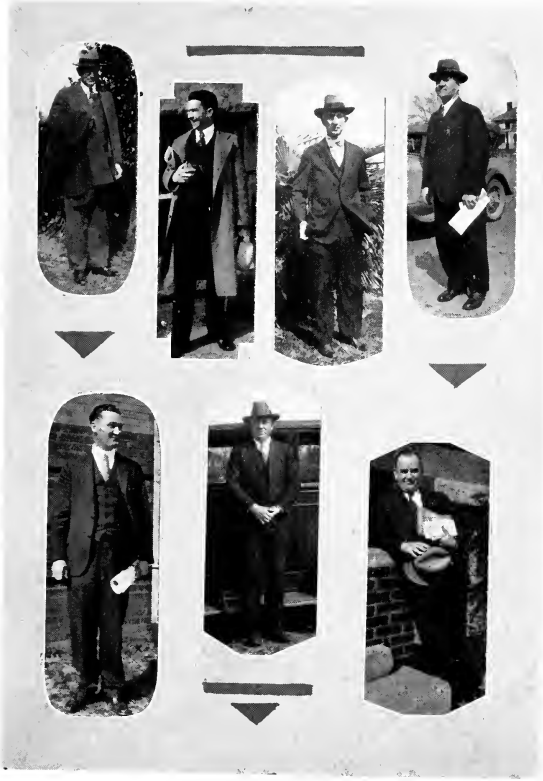
SCENES FROM OUR LAKE



OUTSTANDING GENTLEMAN FRIENDS

THE GREAT DAY ON THE CAMPUS

Ollie Jones: Do your shoes hurt?
Sadie Belk: No but my feet do.

Mary Adams: Silence is golden; but many a man has been talked out of his silver.

* * *

A freshman was parting her hair in front of a mirror. A soph nearby causually remarked:
"You have a fine alley on that block."

In English Class

Miss Turner: I have went. That's wrong, isn't it?
Elizabeth Denny: Yes ma'am.
Miss Turner: Why is it wrong?
Elizabeth: Because you ain't went yet.

Mose out of Luck

A West Virginia darky, a blacksmith, recently announced a change in his business as follows:
Notice: De copardnership heretofore resisting between me and Mose Skinner is hereby resolved. Dem what owe de firm will settle with me, and what de firm owe will settle wid Mose.

Pedestrians should be seen and not hurt.

* * *

Alice Tilley: Did you ever hear Marion Talley?
Evelyn Wright: No, you see I never play bridge.

Evens it Up

Henry Oglesby: What is the difference between a fish and a fool?
Helen Carlton: I'll bite. What's the difference?
Henry: Well, if you bite, there isn't any.

Myra Scull: Run over and tell Miss Kuykendall to change all my numbers on the voice recital to negro melodies.
Ada Bell: Why?
Myra: By mistake I have gargled with ink.

Sarah Williams: How can I drive a nail without hitting my hand?
Mildred Griffin: Hold the hammer with both hands.

Miss Kuykendall: If you want to make a hit, you must sing louder.
Bessie Douglas: I am singing as loud as I can.
Miss Kuykendall: Well open you mouth and throw yourself into it.

Old Lady: I am looking for my little Fido.
Eric Tucker: Then don't stand there and stare at me. Do you think I look like him?
Old Lady: No, Fido had little ears.

It is 12:30 at E. C. T. C.
There is a bustle in the hall,
Doors are slammed and girls rush madly
Down the stairs they run or fall—
It is mail time at the college,
And the noise is going strong,
"Is there any mail in my box?"
Is the cry of all the throng.

E. T. W.

Stop eating before you get full,
Stop drinking before you get drunk,
Stop working before you get fired,
Stop loving before you get married,
Stop living before you die.

There was a time when "teacher's pet" was a phrase and not a whole sentence.

"You're fat."

"In the best places they say one is stout."

"Well, in the best places you're fat."

"Isn' that a popular song Mr. Gish is playing on his saxophone?"

"Well, it was until he played it."

Cullie: My Roomie is a human dynamo.

Roslyn: How's that?

Cullie: She charges everything she gets.

Mr. Wright: Don't you know anything?

Margarite Lane: No sir, I don't even suspect anything.

"HERE WE ARE"

Examination

Examinations are my pest; I can not pass. They make me lie down in sleepless beds: they lead me into troubled waters. They torment my soul: they lead me in paths of forgetfulness in spite of fate. Yea though I study all night to rid myself of thy presence, oh, ignorance, thou art with me; thy rod and thy staff they comfort me-not. Thou preparest no answers before me in the presence of my teachers: thou fillest mine eyes with tears; my brain runneth empty. Surely ignorance and illiteracy shall follow me all the days of my life and I shall dwell in the same class forever.

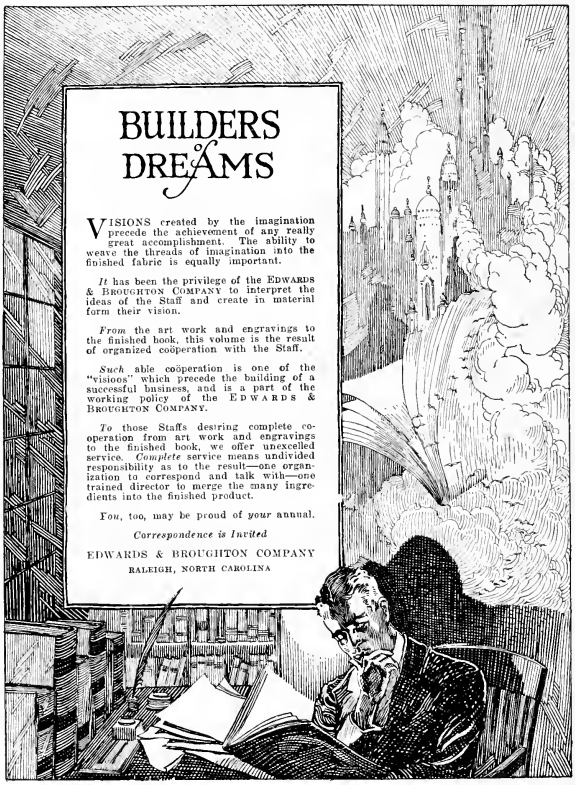
WE, the Staff of the 1931 TECOAN, have endeavored to portray in this book a true picture of the Development of Women in North Carolina—and its relation to this—Our College. We have displayed some of the outstanding women of the different periods in North Carolina history with hopes of revealing to you the development that Women of North Carolina have made today. With this we have woven a picture of the year in its many happy phases, and we sincerely hope that you will give this book a place in your Library of Memories.

EDNA THOMAS WEST.



BUILDERS of DREAMS

VISIONS created by the imagination precede the achievement of any really great accomplishment. The ability to weave the threads of imagination into the finished fabric is equally important.

It has been the privilege of the EDWARDS & BROUGHTON COMPANY to interpret the ideas of the Staff and create in material form their vision.

From the art work and engravings to the finished book, this volume is the result of organized coöperation with the Staff.

Such able coöperation is one of the "visions" which precede the building of a successful business, and is a part of the working policy of the EDWARDS & BROUGHTON COMPANY.

To those Staffs desiring complete coöperation from art work and engravings to the finished book, we offer unexcelled service. Complete service means undivided responsibility as to the result—one organization to correspond and talk with—one trained director to merge the many ingredients into the finished product.

You, too, may be proud of your annual.
